As I Look Back	Typescript	1888-1936	Written by Eugene E. Barnett on his Growing up in America's Southland and 26 years in Pre-communist China. Bound, 346 pages. Eugene Barnett was the closest brother, in age, to Henry G. Barnett and they both attended Emory College. As I look back is, in essence, an autobiography about Eugene E. Barnett. Within it's pages are contents that could be used to sketch a family tree. Additionally he details his preparations for leaving for China, as well as what he does while there. The last section is a list of letters to several different people he wrote throughout the years. I strongly encourage deep analysis of this text. "The first Barnetts in our line in this country were probably John and Lydia Barnett who settled in Charleston in 1665." Captain John Barnett - great grandfather of Eugene Barnett - marries Ann Bochet. Father's grandfather is Wiliam. While Eugene doesn't refer to his father by name, instead he calls him Father, he does indicate his father's age being 6 when Lincoln was elected President and 15 when the Civil war ended. Eugene's father dies 1936, age 86. At this time Eugene is 48. Eight years later his mother dies age 93. Page 205, a Christmas letter from Eugene address 4619 North 41st St. Arlington 7, Virginia to Henry and Bess address 1000 South Pennsylvania Ave.	28cm x 22cm
